

A close-up photograph of an Atlantic Cod fish, showing its textured scales, large eye, and whiskers. The fish is positioned horizontally across the frame, facing right.

Atlantic Cod Science & Assessment Workshops

Southern New England and Georges Bank Stocks

June 1, 2021

8:30 AM – 12:30 PM

Photo credit: NOAA Fisheries

Zoom Review

- Please MUTE yourself, except when speaking. If you are on the phone, press *6 to mute/unmute.
- Please RENAME yourself – Name, Affiliation,
- RAISE HAND, use “Reactions” tab at the bottom of the screen or the blue "Raise Hand" function in the participants tab. If you are on the phone, press *9. Or just raise your hand on the screen.
- Use "CHAT" function to ask questions as well and share information.
- Technical assistance:
Michelle.Lemos@unh.edu

Navigational Aids

- Be attentive to today's objectives.
- Focus on task at hand.
- We are all here to learn.
- Share the floor.
- Be respectful.

Agenda

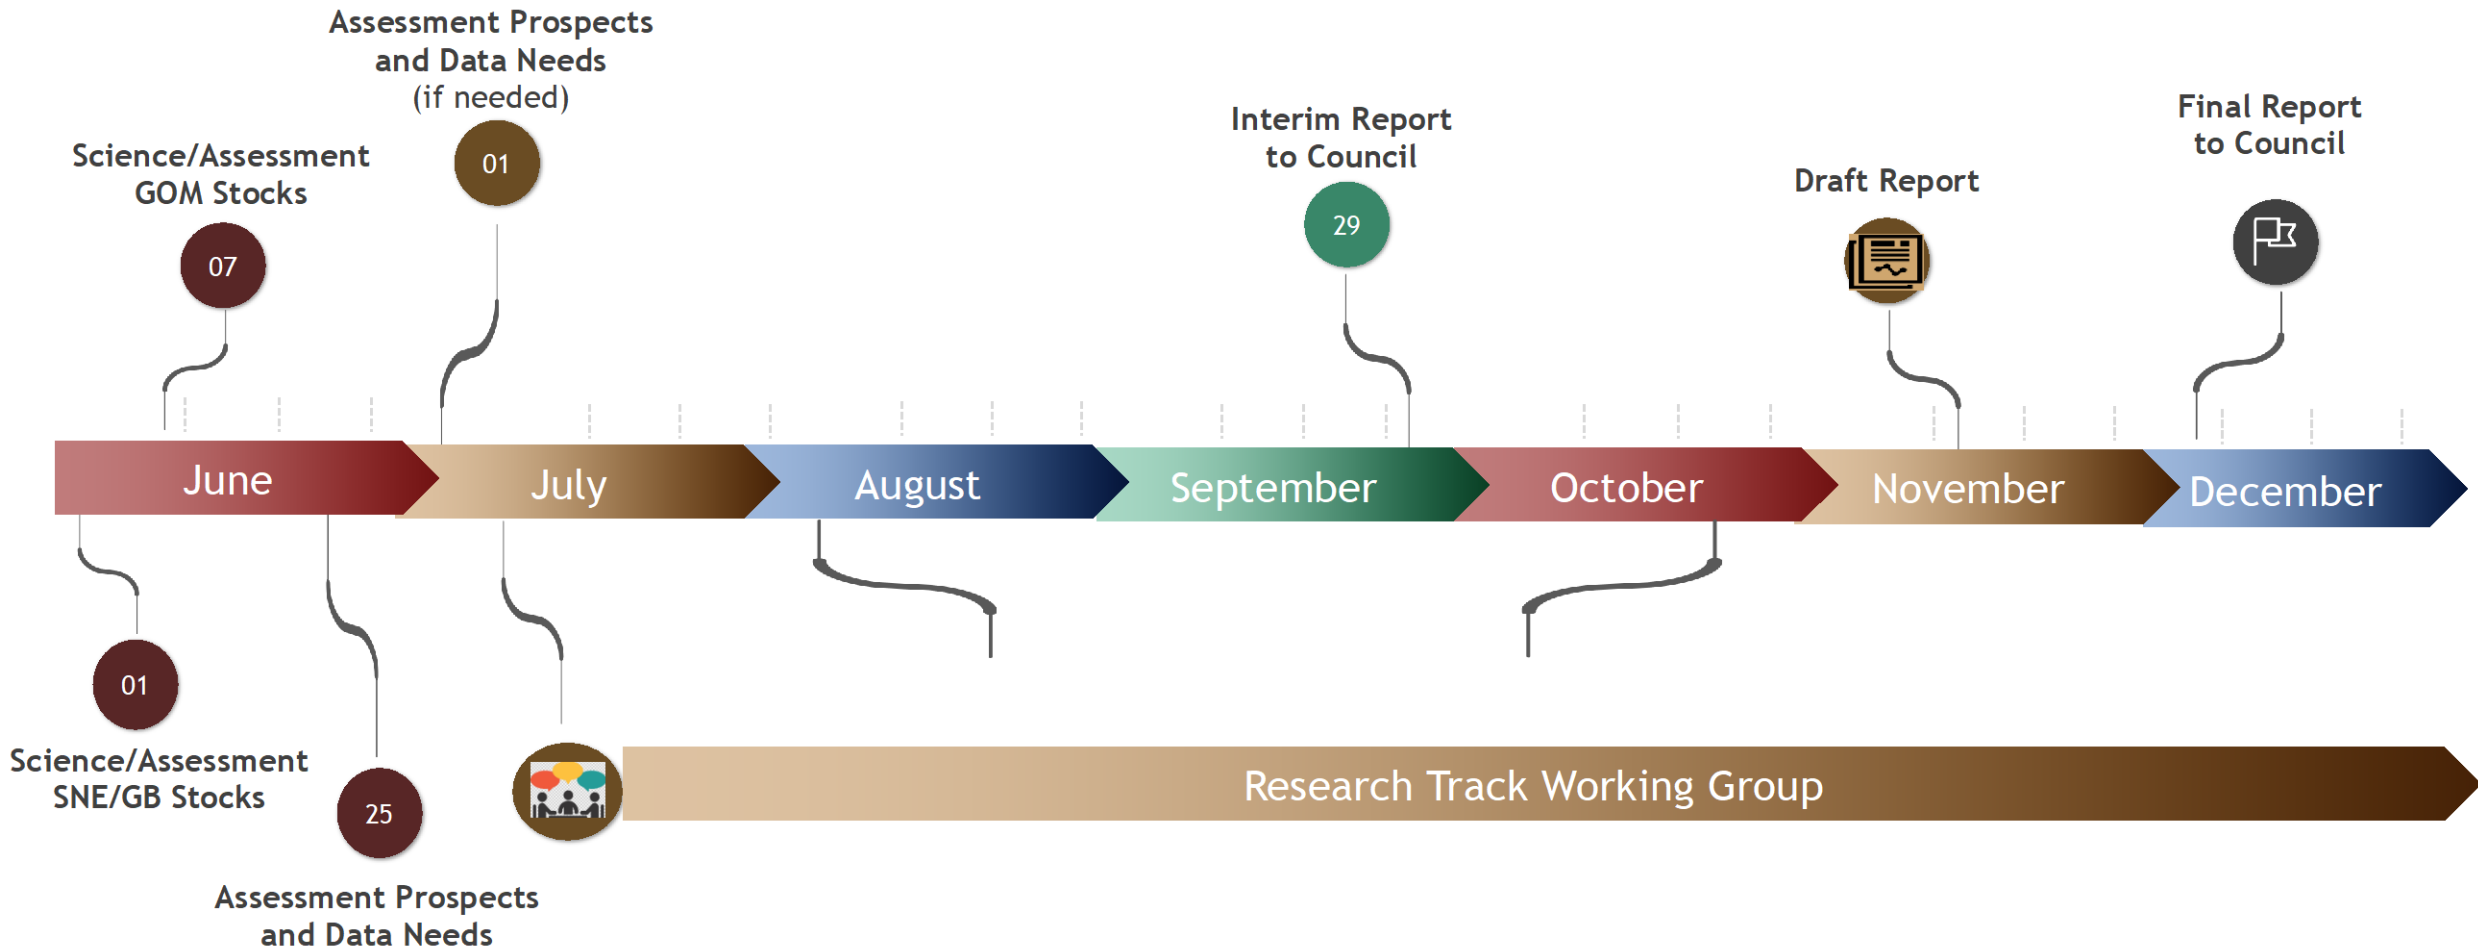

- 8:40 Goals and Objectives of the Science/Data Working Group – Russell Brown
- 8:50 Quick Review of the Cod Stock Structure WG Results – Richard McBride
- 9:00 Stock Assessment Data and Building Blocks – Chris Legault
- 9:20 Stock Area Data Overview - Southern New England – Russell Brown
- 9:55 Stock Area Data Overview - Channel/Western George's Bank – Russel Brown
- 10:25 BREAK
- 10:40 Stock Area Data Overview - Eastern George's Bank – Russell Brown
- 11:20 Discussion of Data/Research Needs
- 12:15 Overview of Next Steps & Adjourn

A close-up photograph of an Atlantic cod fish, showing its characteristic white and brown mottled pattern and whiskers. The fish is positioned horizontally across the frame, facing right. The background is a dark, slightly blurred blue.

BREAK
Meeting will resume at 10:40 AM

Photo credit: NOAA Fisheries

2021 Atlantic Cod Stock Structure Workshop Timeline

For More Information

<https://seagrant.unh.edu/2021-atlantic-cod-stock-workshops>

Science/Assessment Questions or Input

Russell Brown

russell.brown@noaa.gov

Richard McBride

richard.mcbride@noaa.gov

Management Questions or Input

Jamie Cournane

jcournane@nefmc.org